November 2008

Greetings NCKA Members:

The administrative transition to independence from the Japan Karate Association (JKA) has been relatively smooth and painless, though we have missed working with some of our former ISKF colleagues. Such changes are a natural function of the passage of time and organizational development. We certainly wish those who have chosen a different path success and happiness in all their endeavors as we move ahead with our agenda to "Seek Perfection" with the International Shotokan Karate Federation (ISKF) and National Collegiate Karate Association (NCKA). The NCKA constitution, by-laws and board of directors were officially sanctioned by the ISKF board of directors at the October meeting in San Francisco (see list at left) and were approved as members of NCKA board of directors.

In our summer meeting at Master Camp 2008 several motions were approved to further our agenda of making our organization more accessible and functional. An NCKA Handbook was commissioned with Mr. Patrick Vora (University of Pennsylvania) as its editor. It is my understanding that Sally Grimes and J. D. Swanson are constructing a survey to gather further information from our membership as to what types of items should be included in the NCKA Collegiate Handbook. The review process for the Journal of the NCKA (JNCKA) was modified from a blind review to an open review process, and our eligibility requirements for participation were clarified to state that recently graduating seniors could participate in the national collegiate championships if their 4 year eligibility was valid at the end of semester of the preceding academic year.

JNCKA and NCKA access on the internet will soon be available on the <http://www.ISKF.com> website. A hotlink will be established for Collegiate Karate and links set up for various regional and university websites.

We are also very happy to report participation in NCKA by some of the ISKF's senior members, instructors, and technical personnel in an advisory capacity. In addition to Shihan Okazaki, ISKF chairman and chief instructor, as well as our greatest supporter, I specifically refer to Sensei Cathy Cline, 7th dan and Leon Sill, 7th dan, two of our most popular and skillful instructors who bring many years of successful experience to us and we are deeply grateful for their contributions. Dr. Kim Koo, M.D., a noted neurosurgeon, has agreed to offer her academic medical support for our JNCKA. She has been more than generous with providing medical services and expertise at ISKF events for many years. I have known and worked with Sensei Cline, Northwest Region Director, since 1985, and Dr. Koo, prior to her moving to North Carolina, at ISKF HQ, and Sensei Sill, Southern Region Director, since 1968 with the military karate clubs in Europe and with the ISKF. I consider their counsel invaluable.

I am pleased to announce the interest shown and inquiries made regarding papers for the JNCKA. We have recently received notice of an article on teaching principles in the final stages of preparation. Several articles were submitted for publication but have not made it through the peer review process to date. Following successful review, a posting date will likely be set for November or December to correspond with the usual dates of the ISKF National Championships. The ISKF National Championships will be held in Los Angeles this year on November 14-16 and I hope to see you all at that event.

We are interested in publishing academic articles, public information articles, book reviews and short commentaries and encourage you to submit your work (Chicago or APA styles) for publication. If you are interested in submitting an article for publication in the JNCKA or serving as a reviewer, please contact me at psmith@wcupa.edu or (610) 436-2764.

Best regards,

Paul K. Smith

November 2008

I am very pleased to address all of the members both students and instructors of the National Collegiate Karate Association. Since its inception I am happy to say that this branch of the International Shotokan Karate Association has consistently grown and flourished. It is a difficult task to keep our dojos growing, and even more difficult for our colleges and universities. They must adhere to many rules and regulations of those institutions while doing their best to maintain the tradition of our Shotokan karate martial art. This has been achieved under the direction of Dr. Paul Smith, Chairman of the NCKA and assisted by Mr. James Sim and Dr. Anthony Nakazawa. They have volunteered their time and efforts to accomplish their goal of bringing Shotokan karate to as many universities and colleges nationwide. I'd like to extend my sincere gratitude to them as well as all of the instructors and assistants who volunteer their time for all of the members of the National Collegiate Karate Association.

I have stated many times that our collegiate students are the future of the ISKF. Many of us, me included have begun our karate training in these learning institutions. It is the opportune time to try to mold the younger generation while they are in the process of not only learning academically, but also about themselves. There is no better way to learn more about oneself than in karate training. And at the same time, learning to be a good human being. With these tools, when they leave their colleges and universities and enter the work establishment, hopefully they will bring their spiritual knowledge of perfection of character and their dojo kun to help others. This can assuredly make the world a better place. This is the ultimate goal of the ISKF and the karate-ka of the NCKA can help bring this goal to fruition.

Sincerely,

Teruyuki Okazaki
Chairman & Chief Instructor
International Shotokan Karate Federation
